

Digitization – and no ending...

New Jewish content by the Frankfurt University Library for Europeana

Rachel Heuberger,

Frankfurt University Library, Head of the Judaica Division

The Frankfurt University Library has completed a number of digitization projects that give free access to the historic Judaica collection. Others are still being carried out and new content added continuously. Resources can be accessed today in 7 different portals, varying in material, language, nature, type of metadata and research options.

The presentation aims to give an overview of the existing portals and future plans.
